3) Risk Disclosure & Warning

- 3.1. Registration to and use of the Company's Website and services is at the Client's own risk and the Company will not be held responsible for any damages or losses of any kind that the Client may incur due to modifications, enhancements, termination, suspension and/or discontinuation of the Website or any of the Company's platform, systems, or services.
- 3.2. The Company will not be responsible for any damages or losses the Client may suffer due to their use or reliance on the content of any external source to which links appear on the Website, or Company platform or systems. Any third-party links, services, resources, and information that the Company provides are not controlled by us. The Company makes no warranties regarding such third-party services, resources, and information, and will not be liable for the Client's use of or reliance on such third-party services, resources, or information.
- 3.3. The Client expressly agrees that the use of the Website is at their sole risk. Neither the Company, nor any of its employees, agents, or licensors warrant that the Website will be uninterrupted or error free; nor make any warranty as to the results that may be obtained from use of the Website.

- 3.4. The Client acknowledges, understands, and agrees with any and all risks associated with the Company's services, products, and Website, including, but not limited to the following:
- 3.4.1. Trading forex, CFDs, and/or derivatives is highly speculative and suitable only for those who understand and are willing to assume the economic, legal, and other ramifications or risks involved, are financially able to assume partial or even total loss of their investment and understand and are knowledgeable about derivatives and financial trading.
 - 3.4.2. The Company will provide prices to be used in trading and valuation of the Client's positions in accordance with these Terms and Conditions. The trading rates assigned to the assets on the Company's Website are the ones at which the Company is willing to sell to its clients at the point of sale. As such, they may not directly correspond to real time market levels at the time at which the sale of options occurs.
 - 3.4.3. The Client has no rights or obligations in respect to the underlying instruments or assets related to their trading.
 - 3.4.4. Where the Company provides generic market recommendations, such generic recommendations do not constitute a personal recommendation or investment advice on behalf of the Company or any of its representatives, have not considered any of the Client's personal circumstances or their investment objectives, nor is an offer to trade or solicitation of an offer to trade any financial instrument. Each decision by the Client to trade with the Company and each decision as to whether a transaction is appropriate or proper for the Client is an independent decision made by the Client alone.
 - 3.4.5. The Company is not acting as an advisor or serving as a fiduciary to the Client. The Client agrees that the Company has no fiduciary duty to them and no liability and is not responsible for any liabilities, claims, damages, costs, and expenses, including attorneys' fees, incurred in connection with the Client's following of the Company's generic trading recommendations or taking or not taking any action based upon any generic recommendation or information provided by the Company.
 - 3.4.6. The generic market recommendations provided by the Company are based solely on the judgment of the Company's personnel and should be considered as such. The Client acknowledges that they enter into any transactions relying on their own judgment alone. Any market recommendations provided are generic only and may or may not be consistent with the market positions or intentions of the Company and/or its affiliates. The generic market recommendations of the Company are based upon information believed to be reliable, but the Company cannot and does not guarantee the accuracy or completeness thereof or represent that following such generic recommendations will reduce or eliminate the risk inherent to forex, CFD, or derivatives trading.
 - 3.4.7. There are no guarantees of profit nor of avoiding losses in the types of trading the Company offers. The Client has received no such guarantees from the Company or from any of its representatives. The Client is aware of the risks inherent in forex, CFD, and derivatives trading and is financially able to bear such risks and withstand any losses incurred.

- 3.4.8. When the Client trades online (via the internet), the Company shall not be liable for any claims, losses, damages, costs, or expenses, caused, directly or indirectly, by any malfunction or failure of any transmission, communication system, computer facility, or trading software, whether belonging to the Company, the Client, any exchange, any settlement, or any clearing system.
- 3.4.9. Before the Client begins to trade, they should obtain all the relevant facts relating to the Company's remuneration attributable to any transaction and details of any other charges for which they will be liable. If any charges are not expressed in monetary terms (but, for example, as a percentage of a contract's value), the Client should obtain a clear written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what charges, mean in specific monetary terms. In the case of futures, where commissions are charged as a percentage, it will normally be as a percentage of the total contract value, and not simply as a percentage of the Client's initial payment.
- 3.4.10. Under certain trading conditions it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This may occur, for example, at times of rapid price movement if the price rises or falls in one trading session to such an extent that under the rules of the relevant exchange trading is suspended or restricted. Placing a limit order such as a stop-loss will not necessarily limit losses to the intended amounts, because market conditions may make it impossible to execute such an order at the stipulated price.
- 3.4.11. On many exchanges, the performance of a transaction by the Company (or the third party with whom the Company deals with on the Client's behalf) is "guaranteed" by the exchange or its clearing house. However, this guarantee is unlikely in most circumstances to cover the Client and may not protect them if the Company defaults on its obligations. On request, the Company must explain any protection provided to the Client under the clearing guarantee applicable to any on-exchange derivatives in which the Client is dealing. There is no clearing house for off-exchange instruments which are not traded under the rules of a recognized investment exchange.

4) Anti-Money Laundering

- 4.1. The Company is required to comply with the ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING AND COUNTER TERRORISM FINANCING ACT NO. 13 OF 2014 [hereinafter also referred to as: the 'AML/CTF Act' or 'the/this Act', wherever applicable]. Pursuant to this Act, and by applying for an account with the Company, the Client is agreeing to the

 - c) The Client agrees to promptly provide the Company with all information that it requests in order to comply with any and all applicable laws and regulations relating to anti-money laundering and counter terrorism financing.

4.2. Regarding internal money transfers:

- 4.2.1. The Company has detected comments placed by clients in various forums, websites, or blogs, regarding the ways money has been transferred between accounts.
- 4.2.2. Transferring funds between trading accounts of the Company is not permitted, without the Company’s explicit consent and approval.
- 4.2.3. The Company monitors the trading activity of each client and reserves the right to block an account and prohibit any activity, if the Company has reasonable grounds to suppose that the internal transfers of the account’s holder are in breach of a regulation or law it abides to, the Company’s Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Policies, and/or is not recognized to be used for trading purposes as expressly stipulated above.
- 4.2.4. After blocking a suspicious account, the Company shall conduct an internal review of the suspicious account(s) and may inform respective authorities of the issue.

5) General

- 5.1. By accepting this Agreement, the Client consents that the Company may engage any of its affiliates, associates, or employees for the purposes of providing the Client with general customer support and servicing.
- 5.2. The granting by the Client or the Company at any time or concession in respect of any breach of this Agreement by the other will not be considered as a waiver of that breach.

into this Agreement relying on any representation, statement, or document, whether oral or in writing, other than those expressly incorporated in this Agreement.

- 5.4. In addition to any other right to withhold payment, the Company may at any time and without notice to the Client, set off any amounts owed between the Client and the Company. If the Company exercises this right and shows that the amounts due to the Company exceed the amounts due to the Client, the Client shall immediately pay such excess to the Company. For this purpose, any amounts due or available within joint accounts held with other person(s) will be the responsibility of each of the joint account holders in equal part.
- 5.5. If, at any time, any Article, Section, or Subsection of this Agreement becomes illegal, invalid, or unenforceable; the legality, validity, or enforceability of any other or remaining Article, Section, or Subsection in this Agreement shall not be affected in any way.

- 19.7. The main execution factors that the Company uses to determine the best possible result are price and costs associated with executing the transaction. When a particular order is recommended through one of the Company's agents, the Company may check that they have a policy and arrangements designed to obtain the best possible result, taking into account the nature of the order and the relevant market.
- 19.8. Before accepting the terms and conditions of this Agreement and completing the registration form, the Client confirms that they have read and agreed to the Company's trading policies.

21.10. For the avoidance of doubt, it is the Client's responsibility to monitor their account(s) and positions in order to maintain an appropriate amount of margin at all times.

22) Negative Balance Protection

22.1. The Company's trading facilities are designed to prevent the Client from incurring a negative balance when trading under normal market conditions.

22.2. Still, it may be possible to incur a negative balance whilst trading and therefore the Company will reimburse the negative balance on the Client's account, also known as 'zero out the account', as further stipulated in Article 23 of this Agreement.

22.3. This Article, or the action of 'zeroing out an account', will not apply where the Company determines, in its sole discretion, that:

23.2.2. The Company determines that the Client's balance in their account(s) will be reduced to a negative number, based on the results of any open or closed transactions, thereby prompting an adjustment to 'zero-out' said account so as not to incur a negative balance; and

a) The Company shall treat each cost or loss to the Company as a positive amount and each gain by the Company as a negative amount and combine all of these amounts to produce a single, net positive or negative amount, expressed in the base currency applicable to the Client's account (zeroing amount).

23.2.3. A transaction is held past the end of the trading day, without being settled (overnight/rollover).

23.3. Any and all adjustments determined will be expressed in the base currency applicable to the Client's account; and
